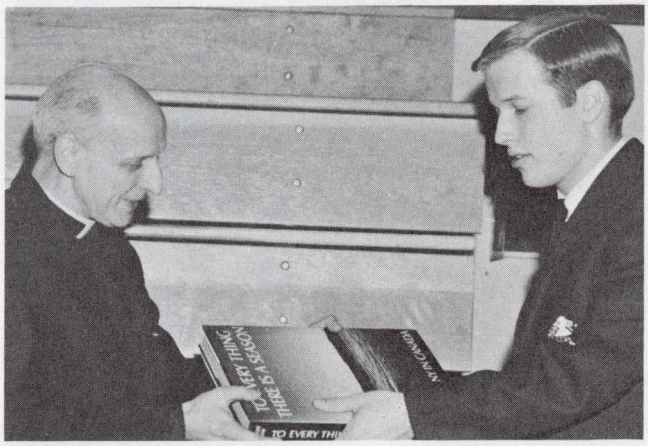
D2,36

Loyola IN ACTION

PUBLISHED BY THE PUBLIC INFORMATION OFFICE OF THE DEPARTMENT OF DEVELOPMENT
LOYOLA COLLEGE MONTREAL 28, QUEBEC

VOL. I, NUMBER 1 SPRING 1967



The Rev. Pedro Arrupe receives a pictorial memento of his recent visit to Loyola of Montreal from Steve Sims, President of the Loyola Student Administrative Council, at a reception held in Fr. Arrupe's honour May 10, in the Physical Education Centre at Loyola.

Superior General Visits Canadian Jesuits

The Very Reverend Pedro Arrupe, S.J. was elected Superior General of the Society of Jesus on May 22, 1965 at the XXXIst General Congregation.

Since then he has visited the Jesuit houses in Italy, France, the Near East, Africa, India and the United States as part of a programme of renewal and adaptation to the contemporary world. As he believes that "if the Society of Jesus remains immobile, it will die" Father Arrupe makes his "trips" as he calls them — to the Jesuits throughout the world in the spirit generated by the Second Vatican Council.

His recent two week visit in Canada to the major colleges, houses and missions of the Jesuit order set a precedent as Reverend Pedro Arrupe, S.J. is the first Jesuit General in history to come to Canada. A man of "charming simplicity", Father Arrupe is a Basque, born in 1907 at Bilbao, the great sea-port of Northern Spain. At the age of 20 he entered the Society of Jesus at Loyola, Spain and completed his medical studies at the University of Madrid.

When the Republican government of Spain expelled the Jesuits in 1931, Father Arrupe was sent to Belgium, Holland and the United States to study philosophy, theology and ascetics. He was ordained a priest in 1936 and two years later sailed for Japan to begin the mission he longed for.

Father Arrupe, known as a man with great power of adaptation soon acquired the Japanese language, started social work at Sophia University which brought him in contact with the Japanese mentality and the life of the poor. His resourcefulness, ability to see, understand and retain, acquired recognition while he was a parish priest of Yamaguchi from 1940 on. He was named Vice-Rector and Master of Novices of the Jesuit Novitiate at Hiroshima and later Vice-Provincial of the Jesuits in Japan.

Father Arrupe is a survivor of Hiroshima and holds a unique experience from this tragic period. In 1945 he took an active part in the aiding of the suffering and dying victims of the atomic bomb by turning his novitiate into a hospital where a book of Japanese Memoirs reveals him as a man with great understanding and love. His medical knowledge and experience were invaluable at this period. During his time in Japan, the Jesuit Japanese Province flourished and his missionary efforts left fruitful results behind.

Upon the recommendation of the General Congregation Father General visits the different Provinces and Vice Provinces (85 of them) as time and work permits.

During his Montreal visit Father Arrupe addressed the Jesuit Communities, Mission Directors and Provincials at Loyola of Montreal where he was invited for a Mission Dinner. Loyola honoured the General's visit at an informal reception in the Physical Education Centre on Wednesday, May 10.

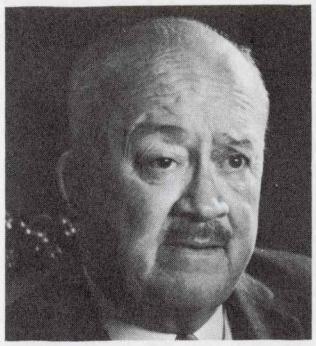
At the reception Father Arrupe spoke with warmth and conviction. His cordiality and simplicity left a strong impression on those who met him.

As the General once said to the Jesuits in France, "I will listen to you — to understand, to counsel and to guide you" and in his Canadian visit to the members of the Society he brought those words to life.

C.U.S.O. volunteers at Loyola

Loyola will be host to 115 young volunteers of the Canadian University Service Overseas (C.U.S.O.) this Summer, July 16 - Aug. 26. They will be on campus for an orientation program before they leave for East Africa to serve as teachers, engineers, doctors, nurses and in other useful capacities.

Director of the Orientation Program is Dr. Donald C. Savage of Loyola's History Department. Two alumni will serve as co-coordinators. They are Brian Slattery, Arts '63 who has himself spent two years in Tanzania for C.U.S.O., and John McIninch, Arts '64, who is presently studying Law at Columbia University. Three Loyola students will be assisting them: Peter Mbisa from Malawi, John Mvoyi of Kenya, and Peter Kyululi of Tanzania.



The Honourable
Mr. Justice Paul C. Casey
Chairman, Board of Governors

Edward F. King, President
Dominion Textiles Ltd.
Board of Governors

Board of Governors

Edward F. King has been elected to the Board of Governors, Loyola of Montreal. Mr. King is the President of Dominion Textiles Ltd. The Hon. Mr. Justice Paul C. Casey, a long time Board member, has been elected Chairman of the Board of Governors. Other members of the Board include:

Very Rev. Patrick G. Malone, S.J., Vice-Chairman; Murray G. Ballantyne, Stanley D. Clarke, John H. Coleman, Lieut.-General Frank J. Fleury, F. Ronald Graham, Jr., H. J. Hemens, Q.C., Frederick R. Kearns, C. S. Malone, John McIlhone, Rev. Robert J. MacDougall, S.J., Herbert J. O'Connell, Rev. Cyril B. O'Keefe, S.J., J. Harry Ranahan, Salvatore Randaccio, Timothy P. Slattery, Q.C., A. K. Velan, Charles H. Wayland, William H. Wilson, J. M. Wynn.

Loyola '67

During the period 1956-57 to present, Loyola increased enrolment from 400 to 5,873 students. This recent growth and development is also the story of a great Canadian challenge — keeping pace with the demands of young Canadians for full educational opportunity.

Loyola responded to this challenge in 1955 when it established a long-term development program to provide for an orderly and gradual expansion of physical facilities. With $8,700,000 spent on construction over the past ten years, the College has now embarked on the second decade of building. Its minimum total cost is $17,600,000.

To complete the financing of Loyola's program to 1975 a minimum of $6,600,000 is currently being sought through a national public appeal. Government grants and long-term loans for students residences are anticipated in a total amount of $11,000,000.

Loyola's Development Program was officially launched on November 22, 1966, although prior to that time the College had carried on a quiet solicitation amonge several large Canadian Corporations to establish a firm base of support for the full campaign effort.

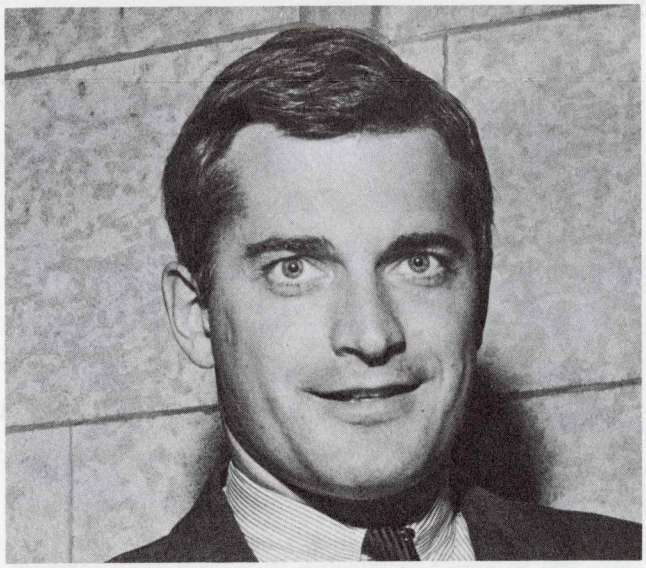
From the outset the response to Loyola's needs has been exceptionally generous. Gifts have been identified in excess of $4 million to this point.

Active solicitation is still very much underway, notably among Loyola's alumni, the English Catholic parishes of Montreal, firms based in Ontario, special name individuals, foundations and smaller companies located in the Montreal area. The Program has been successful in establishing a broad base of contributions. Indeed, the measure of support from all segments of the Montreal community testifies to the quality of educational service Loyola offers to the province and the nation.

Undertaking a successful national drive requires strong leadership and the active involvement of many dedicated persons. Chairman of the Development Program is Arthur F. Mayne, executive vice-president of the Royal Bank of Canada. Clifford S. Malone, president of Chemcell Limited, is vice-chairman.

The campaign organization operates through many divisions and each division is headed by a chairman. The divisions and their chairmen are: Parents — George W. Bossy; Local Companies — Henry Magnan; Parishes — William H. Wilson, Jr.; Alumni — Charles Phelan; Special Names — Brock F. Clarke, Q.C. with Mrs. George A. Daly and A. Patrick Wickham as vice-chairmen; and Lakeshore — Romeo Brault.

Overall, more than 500 persons have participated thus far as canvassers bringing in some 1,500 gifts to date. With a large potential still in sight the Development Program will continue under the direction of Loyola's Development Department until the full objective of $6,600,000 is realized.



John Turner To Deliver Convocation Address

Loyola of Montreal will hold its 71st Annual Convocation on Saturday, May 27th, when well over 300 candidates are expected to receive their degrees in Arts, Commerce and Science.

Hon. John Turner, P.C., M.P. Registrar-General of Canada will deliver this year's Convocation address to the 1967 graduating class.

In the Fall of 1963 when the first substantial group of girls entered Loyola, a new era of co-education started, impact of which will be felt at Convocation '67 with an anticipated 38 women graduates — the largest number in the history of Loyola.

The schedule of events on Loyola Convocation Day follows:

A Solemn High Mass and Baccalaureate Sermon in the Chapel of the College will be held at 10:30 A.M. Reverend F. Greaney S.J., will deliver the Sermon.

At 11:45 A.M. the Very Rev. Patrick G. Malone S.J., President, will entertain at a Reception and Luncheon for the Faculty and the Administration, in Hingston Hall.

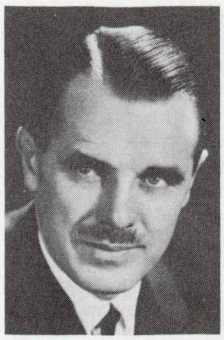
The graduation exercise will commence at 2:30 P.M. with the academic procession in the Quadrangle of Loyola.

Tea on the Lawn will follow the Convocation, for students, parents and guests.

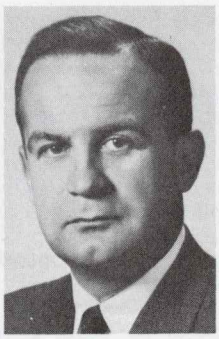
In the event of rain the Convocation will be held in the Rink of the Athletic Complex.

The students Graduation Ball will take the form of a Dinner Dance at the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel.

Some of the Key Figures in Loyola's Development Program



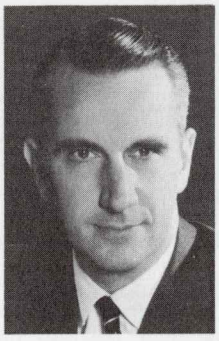
CHAIRMAN
A. F. Mayne



VICE-CHAIRMAN
C. S. Malone

SPECIAL NAMES
B. F. Clarke, Q.C.

SPECIAL NAMES
Mrs. G. A. Daley



SPECIAL NAMES
A. P. Wickham

ALUMNI
Charles Phelan

Flashback '66-'67

At Fall Convocation '66 Claude Ryan, noted Journalist and president of Le Devoir, delivered the Convocation Address . . . A cultural series was launched with Loyola Wednesday Night Concerts on November 2, with the recital of the Princeton Chamber Orchestra. Richard Gresko, Canadian pianist, Garami-Reiner piano-violin duo, Grainne and Senator Michael Yeats were other guest performers during the series. The first season was excellent and promising . . . In late November the Annual Lahey lecture was delivered by Professor Edgar Rosenberg, Associate Professor of English Literature Cornell University, on "Disorders in Dickens" . . . On November 21 last A. F. Mayne, Chairman, Loyola, Development Program delivered the keynote address at the Official opening of Loyola's National Appeal Development Program. Sigma Fraternity was a functional part of the Loyola Development Program and formed a team within the framework of the Parents Division . . . On the artistic front Loyola started 1967 with an Exhibition of Paintings and Sculptures by James B. McDonald in the Vanier Library . . . To show good will, mixed with a sense of duty, students, faculty and administration of Loyola participated in the Loyola Red Cross Day on January 18 with a target of 600 pints of blood . . . The date was January 19: the event was the official opening of Loyola's Physical Education Centre . . . and a detour to academics with Daniel Callahan, Associate Editor of Commonweal, an influential young catholic intellectual who talked at Loyola on "Faith, Doubt and Catholic Honesty" . . . Also in January, Robert Thompson, M.P., National Leader of the Social Credit Party attracted a large audience when he lectured on "Canada's Asian Foreign Policy" . . . other distinguished lecturers like Rev. M. Hasting, S.J., and Father John L. Thomas, S.J., gave talks on campus . . . the Mid-Term Exam results came out and provided excitement on campus. Rev. C. B. O'Keefe, S.J., Dean of Studies announced that 85% of Freshmen students in Arts, 79% in Science, 70% in Commerce and 82% in Engineering passed their Mid-Year exams . . . 1967 is Centennial Year and Loyola declared Monday, February 27 as Centennial Holiday . . . Kappa Chi Fraternity's contribution was "flag Day" on February 15 to salute Centennial Year and commemorate the day Canada received its present flag . . . a series of Public Lectures were held as part of the Centennial programme at Loyola and Dr. J. M. S. Careless, University of Toronto gave a talk on "The Sociable Side of Confederation" . . . Music accompanied Loyola's celebration in a Centennial Concert when the Loyola Brass Ensemble, Madrigal Group and Choral Society presented Italian Music of the 16th and 17th centuries . . . students had a good share of fun at the Annual Winter Carnival in February, with the Brothers Four, Day up-North, the Carnival Ball and pretty Carnival Queen Sally Gallagher . . . With the co-operation of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews an evening of films, discussion and entertainment was sponsored by Loyola to launch "Brotherhood Week." Students from Montreal Universities and Colleges participated in this event on February 19 . . . and in February Cardinal Leger received the Loyola Medal "Insignis scriptu et regis gestis" (For oustanding leadership and achievements). This highest award given by the Loyola Alumni Association was awarded only once previously to the Late Governor General Georges P. Vanier who graduated from Loyola in 1906 . . . the most explosive topic of our time "China and Vietnam" was lectured on by Rev. R. J. de Jaegher, who was personal advisor to the late President Diem of South Vietnam . . . On March 8 at Noon a solemn requiem mass was held in the Loyola College Chapel in memory of Governor-General Georges P. Vanier. Montreal citizens of all faiths were invited to attend . . . Cinema '67, a week long showing of films by Crawley, National Film Board and University Film Makers was a successful project of the Department of Communication Arts at Loyola . . . The Second Annual Symposium on Economics, sponsored by the Department of Economics was held on March 9 and 10 . . . and Tau Kappa Epsilon became Loyola's first International college fraternity affiliation when they gave a charter to Kappa Chi Fraternity of Loyola . . . Founder's Day was on March 10th to honour the memory of St. Ignatius . . . the eventful Founder's Week Programme included "Miss Julie" by August Strindberg, presented by the Canadian Universities Drama League . . . A Spring Fashion show was held . . . Science Students Association gave an open house for relatives and friends during Founder's Week . . . while an Exhibition of paintings by Ghitta Caiserman-Roth Patrick Landsley and Gentile Tondino was held at Loyola's Bonsecours Centre . . . Other events at this time were the reception for Woodrow Wilson Fellowship winners, presentation of "La Cantatrice Chauve" (Eugène Ionesco) by Le Club Français of Loyola, A Concert by The Laurentian Irish Society and a S.A.C. project "Man the Irresponsible" co-ordinated by Phil Shaughnessy, a Loyola study of automotive accidents . . . On March 29, The Loyola Choral Society made its concert debut . . . Loyola's contribution for Canadian involvement in the outside world was a bilingual publication of "The Canadian Journal of African Studies", published for the Committee on African Studies in Canada by Loyola . Loyola students John Beck and Brian Boire received Centennial Science Scholarships awarded by the National Research Council . . . The final Public Lecture of the Academic Year was given by Dr. Kazimierz Dabrowski, Professor of History, University of Alberta on April 17 . . . So another busy and colorful year passed by at Loyola of Montreal . . .

Looking Forward To...

The 71st Annual Convocation on Saturday, May 27, with an anticipated class of 345, including 38 women graduates an anticipated class of 345, including 38 women graduates . . . 'Night at the Races' sponsored by the Loyola Alumni Association, June 6th will feature the Loyola Alumni Fund Race . . . The Fourth Contemporary Theology Institute, sponsored by Loyola of Montreal will assemble distinguished theologians from North American Universities for a week long seminar and discussion from June 26 to June 30th on Loyola's campus. Founder-Director of The Institute Rev. Elmer O'Brien, S.J., has invited: John C. Bennett (Union Theological), James M. Gustafson (Yale), Bernard Haring, S.J. (Rome) and Robert O. Johann (Fordham) to present their position papers. CTI '67 is entitled: New Ways In Theological Ethics . . . CUSO volunteers will be given a six weeks training programme at Loyola from July 16th to August 27th . . . Loyola Bonsecours Centre plans for an artistic summer. An Exhibition by well known Canadian artists in black and white related to contemporary poetry will be held from June 7 to July 2nd. Starting July 5th a newly formed group of Montreal photographers will exhibit at Bonsecours . . .

Giving Made Easier...

Today, many people like to pay for things by the month because it is more convenient. Loyola of Montreal feels this may also apply to the matter of making donations. Loyola has inaugurated a new and unique automatic donation plan which enables the donor to authorize Loyola to automatically issue pledge payments against his bank account. As far as can be determined this is the first time that such a plan has ever been tried anywhere.

The plan is simple to arrange and works much the same as the plans utilized by insurance companies to obtain premium payments. The donor merely fills out a special form indicating the name of his bank, his account number, and the amount and number of payments to be paid. He then signs the back of the form giving Loyola power of attorney to issue the cheques on his behalf and the College does the rest. The donor is forwarded official receipts at year-end for income tax purposes and has his cancelled cheques for verification.

The most obvious advantage of the Autopay donation plan is that it enables the donor to spread his donation easily and conveniently over a period of time.

Dear Readers:

With so many things happening on the University and College campuses of Canada these days, it becomes a real problem in communications to keep everyone posted even in sketchy fashion. This situation applies to Loyola. With this first issue of Loyola in Action, we begin the struggle to keep you informed on our activities, plans, and needs. Most of all, however, we will tell you about our people on campus and off campus who, in their service to Loyola in a diversity of ways, serve the cause of higher education in Canada.

We hope you find interest and information in Loyola in Action We invite your comments and criticisms. In this way, we will be well guided in making this modest publication useful to you in knowing more about Loyola.

Yours sincerely,
PATRICK G. MALONE, S.J.,
President.

Loyola
OF MONTREAL
7141 Sherbrooke St. W.
Montreal 28, P.Q.

ISSUED QUARTERLY

"Authorized as second class mail by the Post Office Department, Ottawa, and for payment of postage in cash."